HARRISON'S CABINET.

THE UNCERTAINTIES WITH WHICH IT IS WOUND UP

NEW YORK TO HAVE A MEMBER.

Veteran Republicans Become Indignant Over Their Treatment—Judge Crisp Ready for Kennedy.

WASHINGTON. February 20.-[Special.] The cabinet is not yet fixed to a certainty, ac pording to the reports that reached here today It appears that General John W. Noble has ssed a preference for the department of ice rather than the interior department, and that General Harrison will gratify him in this matter if it is possible. The way in which this will be brought about will be by giving the position of secretary of the interior to Warner Miller, of New York. This assertion comes on the heels of the statement that expenses and the second of the statement that expenses will be a second of the statement that expenses and the second of the statement that expenses will be a second of the statement that expenses are second of the statement that expenses are second or second of the statement that expenses are second or Benator Platt had indorsed Captain Thomas for the navy department, and that he, Platt, has no ambition in connection with the cabi Thomas is recognized. Mr. Miller would not take the position of secretary of agriculture, and, from reports, he refused it with a positiveness that was convincing that he was not flat-

The position of secretary of the interior is another matter, however, and one that all his friends declare as highly acceptable to him. Now, if all these arrangements go, the president-elect is

RELIEVED OF ALL THE EMBARRASSMENTS that have heretofore surrounded him in giving New York proper recognition, and at the same time avoiding unpleasant conting noise in the future. General Noble's preference for the position of attorney-general is said to arise simply from the fact that he has a professional pride as a lawyer that moves him to go to that department which is available of the control o ment, which is exclusively within the line of

The friends of Captain Thomas assert that the report that the health of that genis not sufficiently sturdy to him to fill the place at the head of the navy department, come from unfriendly sources. As a matter of fact, Mr. Thomas does not display any external evidences of early dissolution, and if he is willing to risk his own welfare in the enterprise, outsiders ought not to lese any sleep over this feature of the situation.

THE MICHIGAN POLITICIANS are keeping one eye on Indianapolis all the while, judging from the remarks of a Michigan republican who lifted one corner of the veil in conversation last evening.

nator Palmer," said this gentleman, "is not retiring from politics as fast as some per ple seem to think. He is just as liable to land at the head of the navy department next month as anybody else. It would be a clever thing for General Harrison to do. If Michigan is not represented in the cabinet, General Alger will go into the next republican national tion with the vote of the state of Michigan behind him. If Senator Palmer goes into the cabinet it will be he that will lead the delegation in 1892. Don't you see how much better it will be, if Mr. Harrison desires a renomination, and it would be folly to suppose that he will not, if he has the vote of Michigan for himself, instead of in the hands of a rival, or at least one not particularly friendly

In this outline of probabilities some think they are certainties. It will be observed that one Miller goes on the slate and another Milgoes off. This is consistent with the prelaw partner of General Harrison, who, on the previous slate, was down for attorney general, would be entirely at the disposal of General Harrison if the latter should desire him to

Crisp Ready for Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy, of Ohio, who was denounced as almost every kind of a liar by Judge Crisp during the debate on the Smalls-Elliott contested election case, has been busying himself ever since preparing a speech in which to defend himself and to attack Judge Crisp, the state of Georgia and the south generally. Kennedy has concluded the preparation of his speech, and is now awaiting an opportunity to make it, when an appropriation bill is under discussion. Judge Crisp, however, has heard of this, and is engaged in fortifying himself by looking up Kennedy's record, which is any thing but a good one, to be used in case of an attack upon himself. Mennedy is possibly the most cabid republican and the bitterest man in the house, and will undoubtedly deal to a large extent in personalities. He is the man who said in a speech during last session that if Georgia were to build an asylum fer idiots, the governor of the state would have to flee to the mountains, or else he, would be the first Inmate. Judge Crisp will meet Mr. Kennedy on his own ground, and will this time probably

They complain that the railroad rates from Macon to Boston, a distance of 1,328 miles, is only 36 cents per hundred for lumber in car load lots, although these points are all on the same line of railroad. They say that they have made complaint to the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia company, which is the initial road, and have asked that the Johnson City rate be reduced, but that their request has been de nied. They, therefore, come to the interstate commerce commission for relief from the excessive charges which they allege they are compelled to pay for the short haul above the rates for the long haul. #### THE FOUR NEW STATES.

The Senate and House Adopt the Report on the Admission of Four New States. WASHINGTON, February 20.—Senator Hear nodified the resolution reported by him yesterday as to the southern elections, so as not to require its reference to the committee on contingent expenses. And, as so modified, it went over till tomorrow. The senate then resumed consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill. Among the amendments reported from the committee on appropriations, and agreed to by the senate were the following: Inserting an item of $3,000 for the expenses of the inaugural ceremonies; inserting an item of $10,00 for the purchase of works of art under the direction of the joint committee on the library.

THE TERRITORIAL BILL. Consideration of the bill was interrupted by the presentation by Mr. Platt, of the conference report on the bill for the admission of outh Dakota as a state, and for the organization of the territery of North Dakota.

The clerk commenced the reading of the substitute agreed upon by the conference com-North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Messrs. Platt, Cullom and Butler, conferees on the part of the senate, explained the mo-tives that actuated them in agreeing to the report, and many things which the senate conreport, and many things which the senate conferees desired to secure had to be given up. They felt that they could not afford, without giving away more than was involved in the difference between the two houses, to forfeit the opportunity of giving state governments to those territories. The admission of four states at once was a great event. Such an event as had never occurred before in the history of the republic. This was a general reply to the queries from senators on both sides as to the different features which had been abandoned by the senate conferees. doned by the senate conferces.

THE REPORT ADOPTED. The vote was taken and the report was

Mr. Harris moved to proceed to executive business, stating that his purpose was not

Mr. Bland, of Missouri, opposed the conference report, declaring that the object of the bill was to squander money in the treasury in order that the onerous, dishonest protective system of taxation might be perpetuated.

Mr. Ostes, of Alabama, one of the conferees, said he had refused to sign the report because of his unalterable, unwavering opposition to the bill from the time of its inception.

THE NEW STATES. Mr. Springer presented the conference reort on the territorial bill. It is made the duty of the president to admit the four new-states by proclamation, if the constitutions framed are ratified at an election to be held on the first Tuesday in October. Each of the new states shall be entitled to one representative in congress, except South Dakota, which shall be entitled to two.

The language of the constitution on this point is as follows:

MURCHISON'S DUPE.

THE SENDING OF SACKVILLE ACROSS THE SEAS.

PAPERS IN THE CELEBRATED CASE.

The Letters Which Passed Between Ministe Phelps. Secretary Bayard and Lord Sackville-Difference of Opinion.

WASHINGTON, February 20.-The president oday sent to congress all correspondence which has taken place between this govern ment and the government of Great Britain in regard to the dismissal of Lord West as minister of Great Britain to the United States. It s voluminous, a single letter from Bayard to Phelps, in which he replies to argument of Salisbury against the action of this government, it embraces about 4,000 words. The president's letter of transmittal is a purely formal communication. The correspondence opens with a copy of the now famous Murchison letter and Sackville's reply thereto.

On October 25th Mr. Bayard in a telegram directs Mr. Phelps to invite Lord Salisbury's attention to the Murchison letters and to express the confident reliance of this government upon the action of her majesty's government in the matter. On the following day Mr. Bayard telegraphs to Mr. Phelps that Minister West's usefulness in this country is Minister West's usefulness in this country is at an end; that a strong public sentiment has been aroused and that Lord. Saltsbury should be permitted, as speedily as possible, to understand the necessity of immediate action.

Under date of October 28, Minister Phelps telegraphed to Secretary Bayard that Lord Saltsbury declines to act until in receipt of the precise language of Sackville West and his explanation. Lord Saltsbury does not regard the minister's letter alone as sufficient to warrant his recall, thus ending his diplomatic career, which would not necessarily be the case if he were dismissed by the government of the were dismissed by the government of the United Stated, for which course there are precedents. Minister Phelps states that there will be long delays with no decisive result if dependence is placed on the movements of the British government, and advises that action be taken upon the intimation of Lord Salisbury. Then follows the report of Secretary Bayard

Then follows the report of Secretary Bayard to the president on the conduct of Sackville, published heretofore, and the letter of dismissal of Sackville, which is as follows:

"My Lord: The president of the U-lited States has instructed me to inform you that for good and spifficient causes, which are known to yourself, and have been duly brought to the knowledge of your government the has, with great regree, become con vinced that it would be incompatible with the best interests and detriment to the good relations of both governments that you should any longer hold your present official position in the United States, and that accordingly the government of her Britanic Majesty will, without delay, be informed of this determination in order that another channel may be established for the transmission of such communications as may-be found desirable by the two governments in the transaction of their business. Whenever it is your pleasure to depart from the United States, I am instructed to furnish you with the usual facilities, and with that view I now beg leave to inclose a passport in the customary form.

Such an answer to such a letter can only be characterized as a gross breach of diplomatic privilege and decorum, and an unjustifable abuse of his lordship's position here as the accredited envoy of a friendly power. He dangerously invaded the exclusive sovereignty of this country over its own soil, its own citizens and its affairs of the deepest moment.

These inclosures have already been made public.

on December 5th last, Mr. Phelps forwards to Secretary Bayard a copy of a note to 'Lord Salisbury in which he transmits copies of the Murchison correspondence and newspaper interviews.

A VERY GRAVE AFFRONT Mr. Phelps says to Lord Salisbury that both the correspondence and Tribune interview appeared to the government of the United States o constitute a very grave and unprovoked affront by Sackville to the president and senate. An interference in political discussions of the United States that under other circumstances United States that under other circumstances might, however erroneous, have been of less consequence, became at the time it took place and under existing circumstances of a very serious and mischevious consequence, and it appeared to the government of the United appeared to the government of the United States should have been avoided with even musual care and circumspection.

In asking the recall of the minister, says In asking the recall of the minister, says Mr. Phelps, upon representation of the general purport of the letter, the United States government assumed that such a request would be sufficient for that purpose, whatever consideration reasons for it might afterwards demand or receive. It was believed that the acceptance or retention of the minister was a creation solely to be determined, either with question solely to be determined, either with or without the assignment of the reasons by the government to which he was accredited, and the government of the United States was not, therefore, prepared for Lord Salisbury's request that the particulars of the language complained of should be furnished, and that the action of her majesty's government in rethe action of her majesty's government in re-spect to withdrawing the minister would minister would await the reception of it and hearing accorded to the minister in regard to it.

LORD SALISBURY'S REPLY.

Lord Salisbury replied to Mr. Phelps Decunber 24, that he had referred Mr. Phelps's letter to Sackville; that her majesty's government were unable to assent to the view of international usage laid down by Mr. Phelps, and that the principles that govern inter-national relations on this subject appear to have been accurately stated by Lord Palmer-ston on the occasion of Sir Henry Bulwer's sudden dismissal from the court of Madrid in sudden dismissal from the court of Madrid in 1848. He then proceeds:

I will abstain from comment from considerations I will abstato from comment from considerations not of an international character, to which you refer as having dictated the action of the president, I will only join with the government of the United States in expressing my regret that a personal incident of this character should have in any degree marred the harmony which for a long time past the enduring sympathy of the two nations has impressed upon the mutual relations of their governments."

The correspondance closes with a letter from

The correspondence closes with a letter from Secretary Bayard to Minister Phelps, dated January 30th, 1889, acknowledging the receipt of the reply of the marquis of Salisbury to Mr. Phelps's note of December 4th, 1888, in relation to the case of Sackville. This letter is a review of the entire subject. In it Mr. Bayard restates, for the purposes of reply, points of contention on the part of Great Britain. Mr. Bayard says that while he concurs in his lordship's opinion, that the general principles ad-mitted by the practice of nations upon this matter are of more importance than the parmatter are of more importance than the par-ticular case. He deemed it essential, how# ever, to state to her majesty's government mo," of ully than heretofore the views of this government, in respect to the grounds of Sackville's dismissal; not, however, with the purpose of inviting a discussion of their sufficiency, for on this suppose to inviting a discustion of their sufficiency, for on this subject, this government has entertained no doubt, but in a friendly way to acquaint her majesty's government with the views of this government in regard to the misconduct of their envoy.

After reciting the fact of the receipt by Lord Sackville of the letter signed by Charles F. Murchison, from which he liberally quotes, the secretary says:

Such was the letter addressed to and received by Lord Sackville, as a representative of her Brittanie majesty. Whether it was obviously fraudulent, or

A THINLY VEILED FRAUDULENT SCHEME, now a question of minor significance. But there a fictitious fraud or no, there are certain acts indubitably and indelifbly stamped upon it lacts indubitably and indellibly stamped upon its face. It declared the writer to be actuated by motives of manifestperildy to the United States. It gross ly impurued and aspersed the motives of the president. It solicited from the official to whom it was addressed an authoritative confirmation or denial of those implanments and aspersions, upon information which his official relations to this government were supposed to supply, and thus to abuse the confidence he enjoyed.

Sackville's reply to Murchison is quoted and Sackville's reply to Murchison is quoted and Mr. Bayard proceeds:

It is true that the letter of Lord Sackville was marked 'private' and that his correspondent stated that it would be kent a secret. In relation to this the marquis of Salishury observes 'private communications, made by an ambassador in good faith, have never, I believe, before been made the subject of international complaint."

The precise force or applicability of this observation in the present case is not perceived.

observation in the present case is not perceived Lord Sackville has stated that his corre

WAS UNKNOWN TO HIM.

A request for his advice could not, therefore, rest upon personal relations of intimacy, duty or confidence. The sole basis of appeal for his counsel was declared by the correspondent to be his preference, as a native Englishman, for the interests of England as against those of the United States. On behalf of the "mother land" he made his appeal. His assurance of secrecy was palpably an invitation to the representative of that country to commit an act of impropriety, inconsistent with his duty and wholly outside the scope of his functions. He plainly informed Lord Sackville that he sought his advice not only in order to determine how to cast his own vote, but also to influence the political course of "many of our countrymen" in an election WAS UNKNOWN TO HIM. course of "many of our countrymen" in an election which he averred to be critical, referring by tha designation to persons who, like bimself, by the hundreds, yes, by the thousands, become American criticals, with the intent the surface of the country of the co citizens with the intent to

"FAVOR ENGLAND'S INTERESTS." The character of Lord Sackville's act is not altered by the fact that another purpose than the one avowed may have been, and probably was, con avowed may have been, and probably was, contained in the application. Nor am I able to perceive that any diminution of his offense can be argued from the supposition that his reply "would be treated as entirely secret."

Had the objectionable conduct of Lord Sackville ended with his reply to the Merchison letter, the situation would have been sufficiently serious, but in various stateements made by him to representatives of the public press, impagnments of the action of this government were emphysized.

CITING EULWER'S DISMISSAL.

CITING BULWER'S DISMISSAL. The secretary then proceeds to the consideration of that part of Lord Salisbury's note, laying down the rule, which in his opinion governs the dismissal of diplomatic agents, and which, Lord Salisbury holds, appear to have been accurately laid down by Lord Palmerston on the occasion of Sir Henry Bulwer's sudden dismissal from the court of Madrid in 1848, the circumstances of which Mr. Bayard sets forth at considerable length. The secretary contend that the case of Sackville is wholly dissimilar at considerable length. The secretary contends that the case of Sackville is wholly dissimilar to that of Bulwer, and says:

In Mr. Bulwer's case the objection of Spain was to the action of Lord Palmerston and presumably to the minister of Great Britain, which Bulwer was but the channel of communication. But throughout the entire transaction Bulwer received the entire approval of his lordship.

The offense of Sackville consisted in personal misconduct, wholly inconsistent with his official duties and relations, of which no suggestion of approval by his government has yet been intimated.

Thus the present issue is not whether it is requisite that a sovereign asking the recall of a foreten minister should give reasons for the application, but whether, when, as in the present case, such recall has been asked for on the ground of interference in the politics of the country to which he is accredited, the question of culpability or the degree of such interference is to be left, not to decision of the offended sovereign by whem the offending minister was accredited."

AN ENVOY'S DUTY.

In concluding, Mr. Bayard says: An envoy is intended to be a confidential interme-diatory between two governments professing friendly relations, and in reliance upon his good faith, the found.

It cannot, therefore, be justly regarded as a caus of international oftense to request the recail of at any whenever it is discovered that his conduct has been such as to unsettle the confidence of the ecciving government.

They Are Arming Themselves and There May Be Trouble.

HELENA, Mont., February 20 .- News just received from Missoula, in this territory, that the Flathead Indians are arming themselves and the settlers in Flathead Lake valley are in great danger. The section where the trouble originated is without telegraph facilities. A letter received at Missoula from Ravalli says "It seems that an Indian stole an overcoat from J. E. Clifford, of Clifford, or Demers ville. Clifford struck the Indian on the head with a nistel, from which the Indian died." Major Rouan says that an Indian brought him a report that J. E. Clifford was killed by the Indians Saturday night. It has since been rumored that both Clifford and Dr. Cunning am were killed. There seems to be a feeling that if Clifford is not killed the Indians will ose no opportunity to kill him. Everything

WHICH IS TAKING PLACE IN

LONDON. HOUS, TON AND PIGOTT ON THE STAND

Telling What They Know and Some Things They Don't Know About the Connection of Parnellism With Crime.

London, February 20-When the Parnell mission met this morning the court room and its precincts were crowded. Mr. Parnell was present. The examination of Houston. secretary of the Irish loyal and patriotic union, was concluded, and Richard Piggott, the man who procured the letters for the Times, was upon the stand when the commission ad-

Houston's cross examination was resumed." He said he destroyed Piggott's letters to him in accordance with an agreement made between them, that they were intended for witness' eye alone and were not to be used publicly. Up to the time witness went to Paris, Piggott had not given him the names of any of the persons connected with the letters secured by the Times. He did not consider that the knowledge of the men from whom the letters were obtained was important in connection with the question of their genuineness. Witness said his part was done when the letters were obtained. He accepted them without securing any means of testing Piggott's statement in the event of their genuineness

WOULD ONLY HANDICAP HIMSELF.

He had no means whatever of testing any part of Piggott's story which he regards as probable, especially as newspaper reports of the dispute between Parnell and the Americam extremists, to some extent, confirmed Piggott's story that the letters were left in a bag found in a room in Paris.

story that the letters were left in a bag found in a room in Paris.

Witness showed the letters to Lord Hartington and asked his advice as to their disposition, but his lordship refused to advise him. He did not offer the letters to the Pall Mall Gazette. He saw Mr. Stead, editor of the Gazette before he obtained possession of the letters and asked him to make up the matter which would lead to the disclosure.

Stead said he had lost 3,600 pounds by the publication of the "Modern Babylon" articles, and he would not like to touch anything else unless he knew it would be successful.

When witness visited Paris he had no specimens of either Parnell's or Egan's writing. He accepted the letters solely on Piggott's word.

"If," said the witness, "Piggott had been needy or fraudulent enough to attempt to commit perjury my action would have assisted him, but I do not admit that he was either. Piggott's interview with Labouchere shook my faith in him and, therefore, my mind was not easy until he had sighed a sworn declaration. Witness further said he migbt have told Stead that Sexton and Dillon were implicated in too. unless he knew it would be successful. Witness further said he might have told Stead that Sexton and Dillon were implicated in the Phenix park murder, but if he did so it was on authority of the statement made by Eugene Davis to Piggott, a copy of which was produced by witness. He did not know where the original was. Two days before the commission opened Piggott wrote him an abusive letter demanding that after giving testimony before the commission he should be given 5,000 poundational Piggott, a well dressed and benevotent looking man, apparently about sixty years lent looking man, apparently about sixty years of age, was then called. Ho testified that he was proprietor of the Fenian organ, the Irishman, in 1865. He belonged to the supreme man, in 1865. He belonged to the supreme council, F. B., All members of the Amnesty association in 1870 were Fenians. Mr. Parnell belonged to it, and about 1871, Biggar, Barry, Harris, Nearey, Mullett and Murphy belonged to the supreme council of I. R. B. Witness belonged to the I. R. B. until August, 1881. He was not an active member. He detailed the negotiations in 1879 by which The Irishman and the Flag of Ireland were sold to a company in which Parnell and Egan. and the ring of freiand were sold to a company in which Parnell and Egan were shareholders. He did not doubt that the league provided the money. Later, Egan said he proposed to render the lives of English officials not worth an hour's purchase, and, replying to a tion, said that of course Parnell was aware of this proposal. Witness continued slightly in touch with the I. R. B. after the sale of his papers. Directly after Egan's flight to Paris, witness received a letter in which Egan asked for the address of Davis, who was a writer on the Irishmen and who had gone to Paris to prepare for the priesthood.

Witness corroborated Houston's testimony with reference to realizations we received the resulting and the second statements.

with reference to preliminary negotiations re-garding the search for the documents. It was understood that the affair should be kept abso-lutely secret. He did not know Davis then except as a contributor to the Irishman. Davis signed his articles "Owen Rowe."

THE SOUTH AND THE NEGRO EX-GOVERNOR BULLOCK'S REPLY TO

THE MAIL AND EXPRESS. leh Paper in an Article on "The South in Congress," Referred to the Governor-The Question of Negro Domination.

to the Editor of the New York Mail and Express.

A friend in New York has just now mailed to me a copy of your edition of January 16. Your leading editorial "The South in Contress," comments upon certain public sugges-tions that I have made and refers to me by name in such manner that I am confident you will do me the kindness to publish the follow

You say. "It is the boast of the southern whites that they will not submit to the domination of the negro." I am not aware of any "boast" by our people of this character, but the fact is not confined to the south. "whites" will not submit to the domination of the "negro" anywhere. There is not a com-munity or a local government within the con-fines of the United States that will submit to such "domination;" nor is there any physical such "domination;" nor is there any physical force extant that can compel it. No political party advocating, or reasonably suspected of such a purpose, will be supported in national control by the votes of the people.

Massachusetts, the birthylace of a philanthropy which calminated, after bloody war, in the abolition of African slavery, would vote against such a party.

Towa, whose wealth of facilities for free public education equips her sons for the intelligent exercise of the franchise, and is therefore, overwhelmingly republican, would condemn the party if it announced its policy to be to compel the southern whites to submit to the domination of the negro.

Such a narrow, malignant, hateful policy

the domination of the negro.

Such a narrow, malignant, hateful policy would be spurned by the white people and by the intelligent colored people of all sections. Had this policy been embodied in the Chicago platform President Clevelaud would have been re-elected by an overwhelming majority of the electoral college.

When, after the war, the choice was offered to the south to accept the congressional, plan

When, after the war, the choice was offered to the south to accept the congressional plan of reconstruction, involving the enfranchisement of the negro, or to submit to indefinite military control. I accepted the former, believing that to aid in building up a business revival, almost any civil government was better than none. This, I am confident, was also the feeling of the white men who co-operated with me. No sane man who had spent his life here could have recommended as a wise or prudent policy putting the ballet in the hand of the ignorant new citizen. Even with the tempting bribe of increased representation in congress, and in the electoral college, none of us would have accepted the plan if we had believed that the object or purpose of the policy was to secure the domination of the negro. While I have risked the personal viclence of unreasoning prejudice to maintain the right of the negro to yate and hold office.

poncy was to secure the domination of the negro. While I have risked the personal violence of unreasoning prejudice to maintain the right of the negro to vote and hold office, I would have been among those who were willing to "cut, burn and destroy" to prevent it if I had believed that the republican majority in the nation sought to compel us to "submit to the domination of the negro."

I did not believe it then. I do not believe it now. All that the letter or the spirit of the amended constitution requires is the recognition of the black man as an equal citizen, and the constitutions and laws of every state now cover this recognition. This compliance with the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments does not, however, involve negro domination. Even where the colored man is numerically in the majority this will not occur, unless pushed to it by some outside evil influence. Intelligence and virtue will never fail to dominate when natural causes can operate unhindered. The intelligent tax-paying negro will always unite with his white fellow-citizea of the same character in voting for whatever policy will be to conveye being convented and if unito with his white fellow-citize of the same character in voting for whatever policy will best conserve his pecuniary interests. And if left to ourselves we will work out together results that will meet the approbation of all right thinking men everywhere. Let the past speak for the future. What is the record?

Twonty-four years ago we made our weary march from defeat at Appomattox to ruined homes. We were without money and without credit. Today, in spite of defeat, poverty, discouragement, political contention and readjustment of social conditions, "the south" has more than doubled her railway mileage; more than doubled the volume of her commerce; more than doubled the quantity, and value of her agricultural products; more than doubled her manufacturing industries, and her output her manufacturing industries, and her output of iron today is greater than the total American product in 1800!

Is it unreasonable to suppose that a people who, under their local governments have accomplished all this in spite of serious drawbacks, are worthy to be regarded and trusted as equal American citizens? Will the best interests of the republic be promoted by compelling such people to "submit to the domination of the negto." Would you destroy this satisfactory condition in the effort of establish at theory? The business man, the philapthre. a theory? The business man, the philanthropist, the politician in your section will respond by his voice and by his vote in an emphatic negative. The dominant party here would respond in the affirmative, because it would enable them to keep up a solidity which depends upon prejudice for cohesion.

I believe that the maintenance of the republican policy of protection to American indus-

I believe that the maintenance of the republican policy of protection to American industry is of vital importance to the growth and well being of my section, and I am therefore opposed to any action being taken by my party on other issues that will weaken it in the north. Its strength in the south can only advance as race prejudice recedes, and that prejudice will disappear, and the citizenship of the negro be fully accepted the moment the masses of our people can be convinced that "negro domination" here is not to be the result of republican supremacy in the nation. Hence it is that I plead, as you say, "that the nation keep its hands off the south, and to permit local laws and customs to regulate and control the relation between the races."

A leading southern statesman, now at the

A leading southern statesman, now at the head of the Peabody education fund—the Hon. Mr. Curry—has recently warned us that the southern negroes are becoming educated more southern negroes are becoming educated more rapidly than our whites, and that unless a change in the progress of the races in this particular is brought about, the negro will become dominant by reason of superior intelligence. When that condition is reached there will be no question as to submission, but you and I, Mr. Editor, will be "where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest." Mr. Editor, will be "where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest."

But to the objection and the remedy.

The charge against us is two-fold.

First—That the ballot boxes in congressional elections are tampered with, and that fraudulent returns are certified to.

This is an offense not confined to any section of the country. There must be an expection of the country.

This is an offeuse not confined to any section of the country. There must be an opposing candidate or there would be no object in misrepresenting the result of the ballot. Congress has already provided by law for federal inspectors and supervisors to observe and report upon such elections as an aid to it in deciding between contestants as to which is the duly elected candidate. The judgment of congress in these cases is final. From it there is no appeal. It cannot, therefore, be urged that gress in these cases is final. From it there is no appeal. It cannot, therefore, be urged that there is anything peculiar to the south in this regard to call for new federal election laws.

Second—It is charged that in many southern congressional districts the republican vote is suppressed; that democratic members take seats with only a few votes behind them, and thus unfairly offset republican members who have been the can members who have been them, and thus unfairly offset republican members who have been chosen in the north by full votes in their districts. While the explanation is simple and conclusive, it is idle to rehearse it. The fact remains and my recommendation is that when a member-elect has not received votes enough to be fairly representative of his district, he be kept off the roll until the house can investigate and pass upon his case. This can be readily accomplished by amending the rule of instruction to its clerk. The judgment of the house will be respected whatever it may be, and if a new election is ordered in any district it is

will be respected whatever it may be, and if a new election is ordered in any district it is highly probable that the candidates will see to it that the election is so conducted as to command the approval of the house.

I depy that congress has power to make laws covering any election whatever, except that of its members. A further examination of the constitution will convince you, Mr. Editor, of this fact. Therefore, there is but one condition in the south subject to the control of congress which differs from the north, and this condition can be corrected by the simple process of the house amending its own rules. Why then advocate a frame work of election laws, calling for an army of federal officials? Such a course will be understood as being intended to secure the "domination of the negation." The north places not desire and will not least the control of the scarce of the house amending its own rules.

republican majority in congress will again dis

May we not unite in the Christ-like utterances of the immortal Lincoln and say, "With malice toward none; with charity for all;" with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; "to do all which may achieve and cherish a lasting peace among ourselves?"

Presumptions. Estoppel. Actions. Master and servant. Damages. Before Judge Atkinson.

This case was argued at the last term and the decision reserved. Bleckley, C. J., being disqualified, Judge Marshall J. Clarke, of the Atlanta circuit, was designated to preside in his stead, Clarke, J.—I. Where exceptions to an auditor's report were submitted to the decision of the presiding judge, who ruled in writing upon all the questions raised thereby, and a bill of exceptions to his ruling assigns error upon "each and every of the decisions and rulings of said court." "herein above set forth, "and a man and every of the decisions and rulings of said exceptions as they are now of file with said report as part of the record of said case"; but no exception was taken to the final judgment of the court finding a certain amount against the other party (who thereupon filed a cross-bill of exceptions), the first named bill of exceptions will be entertained, the judgment rendered being the logical sequence of the propositions attacked thereby.

Will the alliancemen and the farmers gener-Will the allancemen and the lattners gengrally unite and rush Presiden. Northen into the gubernatorial chair? It looks that way. The affairs of state might be in worse hands. Our agriculture deserves greater recognition and Mr. Northen has made himself conversant with the affairs and needs of the farmers in every detail. He is a safe man and the state would lose nothing by two years of administration in his hends.

The Kind of a Farmer That Wins.

There is a farmer in this county who has never bought a bushel of corn, a pound of meat, lard, flour or soap, except for toilet purposes, since the war, and has new a year's supply of all these things on hand. He makes plenty to do him and to spare, and makes good cotton crops besides. He commenced farming on poor land after the war, and he made a success of it all the time. This is an evidence that "there is more in the man than there is in the land." His name is J. B. Childs.

An Increased Credit Business.

From the Monroe, Ga., Advertiser.

Talking a few days ago on affairs in general, and the condition of the country, with a provision dealer, he said: "I have sold more provisions on predit for this year, up to date, than I ever sold before to same date. Will the books of other dealers back up a similar declaration? If so what does it pager? Think of it. A large amount of provisions plready bought on credit, and not a grain of corn blanted for the year's crop. What will be the amount of provisions bought on credit by the first of cichiember, the time when the first money will be realized from the crop of the present year? What will be the outcome? This is the question for all to consider.

A Suggestion to the Labor Agents

the Savannah, Ga., News.

If the lal or agents would turn their attention to the towns they might get all the laborers they want without arousing opposition. In this and other southern cities there are thousands of title colored men and women. The citles would like to get rid of them. There doesn't appear to be anything for them to de, and they are not particularly anxious to do any kind of work. How they manage to get a living no one except themselves seem to know. It is certain, however, that they are not desirable citizens and their they they are not desirable citizens and their they are not desirable citizens and the control of the citizens are not particularly anxious them. zens and that the labor agents are welcome to then. Ferhals if they were taken to Texas or Kanasa, where they would have to work they would become law abiding and industrious citizens. Let its give them a trial "And Will Keep Out of Politics."

All of our sympathies are with the farmers, and we wish them God speed, but they must wait for their faathers to grow before they can fly. In looking after their financial interests they must scan closely those of their brethren who would rule over them. Politiciaus, as a class, while their word over them. Inditicians, as a class, while their words are full of love for the dear people, their eyes are on the lookout for soft places, and their steps lead them in search of the essentials which are used in feathering their ness. Unsailled pilots, they would wreck any ship, inexperienced business men, they will bankrupt any corporation. If the Farmers' Alliance will consent to go slow, and grow with its growth, and will keep out of politics and not beg for creait, it will become a power in the land, the builder-up of the planting interest, and the very bulwark of our country.

On Dignified Christianity

What a superb speaker is Bishop Beckwith, how subline his oratory, how perfect his action, how convincing his logic. His sermon on last Sunday was a magnificent effort, free from everything like cant or rant. With ealm dignify and yet with the enthusian of a devotee and the burning eloquence of conviction, he presented Christ to his heavers, with a force and clearness that left no room for doubt. His chaste words and disulfed bearing are a repreach to the coarse jokes and low appeal, too often used to attract attention, by the sensational preachers of the day. Christianity is the essence of dignity, Christ the embodiment of purity and the preachers who resort to vulgar wittleisms and appeals to the passions of men should be discountehanced. The church is no place for merriment, religion no theme for the charletan.

A Historic Church. day was a magnificent effort, free from everythin

From the Macon, Ga., Telegraph. hundred and thirty-seven years ago Midway church was founded in Liberty county, Ga. more than a century it was the source of an in-nee which was felt far from its site and its hisfory is interwoven with that of the state itself. In 1852 its contennial was celebrated with impressive es, in which a great number of people parceremonies, in which a great number of people participated. During the war the venerable structure was desecrated by the invaring army; its corneratione was wrenched from its place and broken open in search of hidden treastre. For several years past the anniversary of Middwa church has been celebrated by a society formed to preserve its traditions and to keep up the time honered institution. rom the Lawrenceville, Ga., Herald. What is there in this bill that should enlist the opposition of any democrat, and especially a southern democrat? It will reduce the surplus, encourage the cultivation of a profitable crop in the south, give employment at good wages to thousands south, give employment at good wages to thousands, and be one step in the direction of revenue reform, to which the party is pledged, and the best interest of the country demands. Its opponents admit that the principle of this bill is right. It is a part of the Mills bill which has received the indersement of the party. Why then should there be opposition to fif. The only excuse we have seen offered is that it does not reduce the tax on the necessaries of life first, and as we cannot get all the relief at once, we will take none. This seems like child's play. Every reading man knows that the Mills bill went down with Cleveland last November. The is usually squarely made on the boots. Is it best to accept the situation and make the most of it, or with unreasonable stubbornness demand what we know we cannot get, and refuse to accept anything less? Politicians who have a theory to carry out may profer the latter alternative, but the people, who look more to results than is theory, will hardly indors: the vote of a representative who fails to do the best he can. They will have to answer this question on every stump from the Polomac to the Rio Grande. one step in the direction of revenue reform

One Man With Three Thousand Acres Under Cultivation.

Under Cultivation.

Albany, Ga., February 20—[Speciál:]—The extent of the farming operations indulged in by the large planters upon the fertile plantations in the oaky woods in this vicinity is shown by the acreage of one of them, viz: Mr. J. B. Beall. Upon his "Hickory Level" and "Beech Grove" plantations he will plant this year, including both his contract and tenant hands, 1,500 acres in cotton, 700 acres in corn, 700 acres in oats, 50 acres in sugar cane, ewect potatoes, melons, etc. Mr. Beall last year made 19 bales of cotton per mule. The expenses of farming his large places is paid for by the rental from his fifty or more tenants, leaving his immense cotton crop a clean profit. leaving his immense cotton crop a clean profit The tonants fertilize the soil and their are none the worse for their occupancy.

PLACED UPON THE TAX LIST. The Barrooms of Fashionable Clubs Under Attention.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 20 .- [Special.] This morning two new entries were made upon the city tax digest. They were the Oglethorpe club and the Harmonic club, the wealthiest ocal organizations of Savannah. Both were classified as retail liquor dealers; and a demand will be made upon them for the regular annual tax of $200, for which each will receive the little license certificate. Some of the members deny that the clubs are subject to the tax, and claim that the city's right to it will be contested in the courts. At each of them liquor is sold at minimum rates to members and others partaking of their hospitality. For some years the question of taking action to compel the taking out of the reg-ular license has been discussed. City Attorney Adams has given it as his opinion that the clubs in question are liable to the tax. The general impression is that they will pay to avoid any sensational controversy.

A ten-year-old girl of Mr. McDaniel, who lives on the Jacob Garrett place, in Milton county, was fataily burned on Monday of last week. Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel were not at home, and the children, five in number, were alone, the one burnt being the eldest. Her clothes caught from the fire in the house, and she ran out of the house. A neighbor who was passing caught her and extinguished the fire, but most of her clothes had burned off. She suffered terribly for three hours, when death relieved her from her sufferings.

THE GRAND JURY REPORTS That Respectable Citizens Acted as Shields

for Vote-Buyers. SAVANNAH, Ga., February 20.-[Special.]-The grand jury of the superior court, in its presentment today, in referring to the matter of corruption at the recent city election, stated its investigation it had met with many obstacles from those whose duty it should have been to aid in preserving the purity of the ballot, ant that while there was apparently abundant ground for the charges of bribery, it was found impossible to fasten the guilt upon individuals, through the refusal of witnesses to answer questions. The jury-expressed its regret that respectable citizens acted as a shield for those who bought votes, and recommended that detectives be employed to prevent a repetition of the corruption at future elections.

Columbus, Ga., February 20.—[Special.]—
According to custom, a street car was turned loose at the top of Rose Hill this morning and allowed to descend the grade before hitching the nules to it. The car came down about as usual, but when it struck the curve at the foot of the hill, Colonel R. B. Gunby, who was a passenger, and who was riding on the front platform, was thrown off as the car made the sudden turn. His head struck either on a rock or the car rail, and serious injuries were inflicted. Bloqd flowed from his nose and ears, and it is feared that he has been badly injured. The skull was fractured. The fall made him insensible, and he remained in an unconscious Columbus. insensible, and he remained in an unconscious state for an hour or more. He was carried to his home where, under the care of Dr. Seth Jordan, he seems to be improving.

HIS DEAD BROTHER.

THE STRANGE DREAM OF A FED-ERAL OFFICER.

Which He Was Lead to the Spot Where His Brother Was Murdered-Something in Dreams.

CUTHBERT, Ga., February 20 .- [Special.]-In a dilapidated portion of the Eastern ceme-tery of Cuthbert on a weather beaten slab may be seen the following inscription:

Sacred to the memory of Jim Brown.
Nothing in this to attract attention, not even Nothing in this to attract attention, not even the date of birth or time of death is given, and it is only those filled with curiosity who turn aside to note the words upon the marble. The spot is not known to one-fourth of the citizens of the town, familiar as they are with every incident connected with its history. It is only the oldest inhabitants who can relate the circumstances associated with one of the most thrilling tragedies ever enacted in the county, the mention of which never fails to inty, the mention of which never fails to draw a crowd around the narrator. And Jim Brown is one of the central figures in the story

In 1896 there was stationed in Cuthbert a company of federal soldiers as regulators and general supervisors of the people of the surrounding country. Colonel Williamson, a man of feeling and discretion, was in command. Under him was Licutenant Charles Murphy, a young man who was couretous and obliging. Licutenant Murphy had a brother in Blakely, who was also an officer in his company. The Blakely officer received orders from his superior one day to proceed on foot, in citizen's clothes, to Cutberth, where he would receive the funds necessary to pay off the company for the quatter past. In Cuthbert he spent the night in his brother's tent, and early the next morning set out on the In 1856 there was stationed in Cuthbert : bert he spent the night in his brother's tent, and early the next morning set out on the return trip. About six miles out he stopped at a neight oring farm to rest. While here he disclosed the object of his jeurney, and told of the money on his person. Among those present was Jim Brown, a farm hand. Poor and friendless, filled with the idea that it was no harm to kill a yankee, he set about laying nlens to get the young officer out of the

it was no harm to kill a yankee, he set about laying plans to get the young officer out of the way and to secure the booty.

"Where are you traveling?" said Brown.
"To Blakely," replied the lieutenant.
"Then you are wrong, my friend. This road will never get you there and the farther you go the farther away you will be."

"Indeed!" said the officer in surprise, "how can I reach the right road?"
"I'll agree to put you strateth for a quarter."

"Indeed!" said the officer in surprise, "how can I reach the right road?"

"I'll agree to put you straight for a quarter," Brown replied. After a little preliminaries the two started out—Brown in the lead, Murphy following. They left the Blakely highway and by taking to the woods and fields succeeded in reaching the swamp of a small muddy branch. This Brown said they would have to cross. At an opportune time, just when it looked as though no one was near, Brown stepped aside and allowed the federal to pass in front. Then by a dextrous and quick movement he drew a pistol and fired, the ball striking a vital point and producing instant death. It was but the work of a monment to secure the money and depart, It was not long before a posse secured Brown and lodged him in jail in Cuthbert. A few of the company secured the prisoner, Brown and lodged him in jail in Cathbert. A few of the company secured the prisoner, and, placing a rope around his neck, swung him to the most convenient limb. Colonel Williamson ran up with knife in hand and cut him down. He then placed a special guard around him, and at the first opportunity sent him to Macon, where he was tried, convicted and hung. His remains were sent back home and interred. Notwithstanding the prevalent feeling at that time none were found who sympathized with the murderer, and had he been tried by a jury of his fellow-men he doubtless would have suffered the same fate.

But now comes the strangest part of the story. The night after the murder the dead man's brother, while peacefully sleeping in tory. story. The night after the murder the dead man's brother, while peacefully sleeping in his tent, was awakened by a violent fluttering of the cioth sides. They made such a noise that he could not sleep, with their flap, flap, flap. It was a perfectly calm, clear, bright moonlight night, as still as still could be. Not a sound could be heard save the noise of the cloth tent. The young lieutenant arose and walked young lieutenant arose and outside. At once the noise ceased. outside. At once the noise ceased. It must have been a fancy of the imagination, thought he, and in he turned. But not to go to sleep. After attiring himself in his uniform he sat down oh his bunk to think. Something seemed to weigh upon his mind. An hour passed and the soldier turned over and fell asleep. Again he was awakened by the noise of the cloth tent as though in the midst of a violent storm. This time he went outside again.

Standing in the shadow of a large tree was the standing in the shadow of a large free was the figure of a man beckoning him that way. He approached. When he drew nearer he discovered that it was his brother returned. He told him that he was in trouble a few miles from town and he desired him to return immediately with him to the spot. The tone and gesture were sufficient guarantee of earnest-ness, and the two set out at once. Silently ness, and the two set out at ones. Silently they walked the highway together. Then they turned off through fields and woods until the branch was in sight. Now slowly they walked down the hill into the swamp when lo and behold! the man who who was in trouble suddenly vanished and at the feet of Lieutenant Charles Murphy lay the the fect of Lieutenant Charles Murphy lay the cold, stiff body of his brother. Unable to comprehend the terrible mystery, weak and terrified, he returned to town. It was early morning and the first bright rays of the morning sun were just crowning mother earth with a garniture of liquid pearls. The young officer told his experience as best he could. A party was sent out to scour the country and ascertain its truthfulness. Acting upon what had been told, it was not leng before they brought in the body of the dead yankee, and secured evidence which convicted Jim Brown of the crime.

Was it a fitful dream of somnambulist, or did the spirit of the murdered Murphy appear and lead his brother to the spot where he had been murdered?

The majority were in favor of establishing a new station at the south side of Cockspur island, on land owned by the state. The mmority fav-ored the improvement of the present station, After considerable eiscussion the report of the committee of council to which the matter was referred was adouted providing for the After considerable escession the report of the committee of council to which the matter was referred was adopted providing for the extension of the three wharves at the 'present station, the placing of two portable hoisting engines and the laying of iron tracks. When these provisions are carried out, a vessel with 200 ton ballast will only require forty-eight hours to discharge, a saving of several days. This is only considered a temporary relief, and Cockspur Island will doubtless be made the site of a new station. The present locality is undesirable, as it forces vessels to anchor in the main channel, with the consequent danger of collision, and is apt to cause shoaling. The work of discharging ballast will be under a city employe. An effort was made to have it done by contract, and it is said that Health Officer Bruner was offered $1,000 if he would use his influence to that end. He refused to consider the proposition. that end. He refused to consider the proposi

The Tobacco Tax.

We venture to say that the purpose of Mr. Mills and other democratic leaders to antagonize the Cowles bill is not indorsed by any great number of democrats who understand the situation.

Mr. Mills contends that the reduction of the tariff on the necessaries of life should precede the repeal of the internal taxes on tobacco. This view is natural enough and proper enough, but it is not a view that is superior to circumstances by any means. Circumstances must be taken into considerstion by all reformers.

The Mills bill was defeated in congress, and the democratic party was defeated when the matter was appealed to the people. There is now not the slightest hope of any reduction of the tariff on the line of the Mills bill-not the slightest; but because that is so does it follow that the democrats should oppose all reasonable efforts for the reduction of unjust and unnecessary taxa-

Mr. Cleveland himself, in his message, said that the surplus is a condition and not a theory, and he then proceeded to point out the dangers of that accumulation. The dangerous surplus, the result of unjust and unnecessary taxation, was the basis of the president's message, and those conditions still confront the country.

As every democrat knows, there can be no legislation now in the direction of tariff reduction; but because this portion of the Mills bill is blocked, does it follow that democrats should refuse to pass the internal revenue features of that bill. These features were indorsed by Mr. Mills and the democratic members of the ways and means committee, and no reason can be found, either in democratic desires or in democratic policy, for antagonizing them at this juncture, when all other forms of democratic tax reduction are bound to fail. Mr. Mills and his followers are making a terrible mistake, the effects of which will be seriously felt in the democratic party of the south if their efforts are successful. They may suppose that they are retaliating on the republicans by refusing to indorse the tobacco feature of the Mills bill, but, as a matter of fact, they are retaliating most severely on the most innocent democrats to be found in all this land, the tobacco-growers of the south.

These democrats cannot at all understand the fine-spun theory or policy that induces Mr. Mills to reject one feature of his bill simply because the other features cannot be adopted. They hold to the old saying that half a loaf is better than no bread. Because there can be no tariff reduction just now it does not follow that the tobacco tax is less unjust, and because the surplus cannot be reduced to the full extent of the Mills bill it does not follow that a reduction of $31,000 .. 000 a year would not lighten the burdens of unnecessary taxation.

In his opposition to the repeal of the tobacco tax, the democratic party is not supporting Mr. Mills.

The inventor is a Scotchman. He has been at work on his machine a long time, and it is said that he recently took a trip of two miles in it. ### Banking Facilities

The New York Commercial Bulletin is of the opinion that banking facilities are in greater demand than ever before. If this is true of the north, it must be doubly true of the south, and this fact is emphasized by the facility with which the public here (we say "public" with some grains of allowance) permitted itself to be swindled by the socalled "Mercantile" affair that set up for business in Atlanta some time ago. experience of those who invested in that experiment ought to be convincing, but the fact that there was any investment at all shows the necessity of larger banking facil-

The Bulletin is of the opinion that congress ought to remove the burdensome restrictions that hinder the growth of the national banking system. In our opinion, the system itself ought to be revised for the benefit of the people. There is no longer any necessity for a banking system the chief object and aim of which is to keep the bonds of the United States at par. The national banks were organized for war purposes, so to speak, and they have carried out those purposes to perfection. The system should now be modified to meet the demands of the people, or it should be supplanted by a system of state banks based on the national

The Commercial Bulletin goes on to say that "the small banks would be organized with greater rapidity now than ever before if the requirements were such as could be by institutions of limited capital. The would be incalculable. The expense of ad mission to and continuance in the national system should be reduced to the minimum consistent with perfect security, and the organization of small banks should be encouraged by every proper means. The great banking institutions of the financial centers are in no less need of measures of relief than the smaller banks, if they are to be allowed to acquire their maximum usefulness and to do their full share in the advancement of the business interests of the country and its material development. They should be relieved of all unnecessary restrictions and burdens, and should be accorded the greatest freedom consistent with safety." This is a matter that demands the attention of congress.

What Our Literature Lacks.

Our leading publishers talk very entertainingly about their business. They have accumulated a vast fund of interesting mis information, and seem determined to spare no pains and expense in adding to it.

In a free and candid chat with an Evening Sun reporter the New York publishers have kindly explained the difficulties environing the American novel. "As a rule," said one, "manuscripts are uninteresting owing to the new and crude features of life here which render it next to impossible to write a successful story."

According to this view of the situation, our literature lacks old and finished material, traditions, and all that sort of thing. There is some mystery here. Some of the best recent novels deal with what is new and crude. The physical part of "The Story of An African Farm," is about as new and crude as it could be. The same may be said of the most interesting chapters written by George Manville Fenn, William Westall and Bret Harte.

Perhaps what our literature really lacks is writers with the ability to handle the material around them, and publishers who can sing someting else besides, "I Am a Pirate King." This is the whole trouble. Between piddlers on the one hand, and pirates on the other, American literature is in a bad way. EDITOR JOHN R. McLEAN, of Cincinnati, arnounces that he is out of politics. We have forgotten whether Editor McLean or politics ought to be congratulated, but congratulations are due somewhere, and we hereby heartily

The Total Mileage. The number of miles of railroad in the United States and territories is now just about 150,000, or more than the mileage of all Europe. A 150,000, or more than the mineage of all Europe. A force of about 800,000 men is employed in various capacities on these lines, being at the rate of a trille over five men to the mile. Hence the 7,000 miles of new track laid last year called into requisition the services of 35,000 additional men. The increase is fully 1½ per cent, which is considerably in excess of the average annual increase in population.

It is the talk of theatrical circles. Last night they played in Atlanta, and no doubt there were many in the audience who speculated as to the cause of the dissolution of the business ties that bound these two together.

And it is alleged that not only business, but domestic ties have been severed

The Louisville Courier-Journal prints more than a column concerning the matter, in the course of which what is said to be a sketch of the career of Marie Wainwright is given at length.

The Courier-Journal says, in a New York dispatch which treats of the separation: The personal popularity of the pair has served to intensify interest in their departure from each other and wild stories on the subject are in circulation. The certainty to be printed is that Mr. James dis covered the loss of his wife's affection; that the circumstances admit of no doubt on that point, and that without much ado they agreed upon a mutual

Louis James is a Raltimorean, and he was educat ed there for the medical profession. But he took to acting instead of physic, and for several seacons was in the stock company at the Fifthavenue theat at the time when Augustin Daly was battling fortune in that house. Thence James went to the Boston theater, and there made the acquaint ance of Marie Wainwright, who soon afterward became a member of the same company, and to gether they played the lovers in many a drama. This was twelve years ago. Pretty soon Mr. Slaughter became convinced that the mimicry of passion had become reality to them, and he set detectives the became reality to them, and he set detectives and the weekley of the work had been set them free and on the watch. A divorce soon set them free, and she was almost immediately married to James. Slaughter had not prior to this connected himself at all with theatrical business, but a little later he became an actor, went to Australia, and died there. Mr. James now voluntarily loses the wife whom he won in the manner described. They had planned to continue starring together next season s they had done fairly well up to this time artistically and financially. It is true that each had sacrificed something to the other's welfare on the stage. She had consented to play Desdemonia, a stage. She had consequence to play restembnish, a part in which she was not successful, because his Othello was one of his strong features; and he had made himself absurd as Malvolio because her Viola was an admirable performance. It is no doubt something of a will be proud. It is no doubt something of a shock to her admirers to learn from the preceding dispatch that she is not all that looks from her innocent eyes and is to be read in her sweet, girlish face.

It is said that there was an unusually large attendance, and the resolution that division be dissilved was adopted without a assenting vote. A committee was appointed to wind up the affairs of the division and to return the charter and other papers to the general officers of the order. The division was composed almost exclusively of Reading railroad engineers, and was one of the largest divisions. A few of the Pennsylvania men belouged to the division. The incorrigible Turk will sprobably get ome Atlantans if they don't watch out.

A new rule has been established in regard to travelers passing through the Turkish dominions.

The following from the New York Sun of February 17 will explain the matter:

Ballazzi Effendi, consul general of Turkey} called at Cook's Tourist agency on Broadway, day before yesterday and informed Manager George Eade that American travelers in Turkey must have passports vised by Turkish consuls here in order to avoid arrest when they arrive. The order was received at Washington from the Turkish government by cable, and followed by letter. It applies to every other country, too. The Turk has always been abnormally careful regarding persons entering his territory. The present unusual order follows upon the recent opening of the new oriental all-rail route from Vienna through Hungary to Con-stantinople. Before this route was opened a few months ago access to Turkey was only had by steamer from Varna, and travelers were easily handled and examined at the wharf. Now travelers can stop off at fifty stations before they reach the capital, and the imperial decree is the result. An American traveler getting off anywhere in Turkey without a passport vised by the Turkish authorities in this country fares badly. He is placed under arrest and confined in a Turkish prison un-til he can find some well known person to vouch for him. As a rule he will have to send home for certificates and wait under durance till they arrive. Mr. Eade tells of a man who was arrested in Damascus about a year ago for not having a passport. It was the Rev. William G. Clarke, of Chicago. He was jailed until his passport arrived from Constantinople, where he had left it, and then, as it was not vised by the Turkish minister in America, he was detained until he had substantially feed all the officials who demanded money.

The Umbria on her last trip carried nine passengers bound for the Holy Land. They were duly notified that they would have to have their passports vised by the Turkish consul general. But they probably did not consider it worth while, for they sailed without going through the ceremony. They will proba-bly, Mr. Eade thinks, all land in the jug at Constantinople.

They were the Rev, George Summey and wife and J. H. McClure, of Chester, S. C., and H. B. Mays, the Kev. E. H. Barnett, D. D., H. F. Emery, W. A. Moore, W. L. Moore and W. W. Austell, of Atlanta.

BASEBALL, BOOMS

ATLANTA WILL GO IN THE SOUTH-

ERN LEAGUE WITH "CAP" JOYNER AS PRESIDENT

The Work of Organizing a Southern League Club for Atlanta is Progressing Finely—The Most Important Points Being Settled by Captain W. R. Joyner's Consenting to be President.

Trase ball is a booming. Atlanta will go in the Southern league-that is settled. And Atlanta's going in means the success of

For several days some of the local lovers of the game have been quietly at work perfecting plans for organization. It was felt that the time was ripe for a revival of the interest in base ball, and the only question discussed was as to the best way to go at it Who would be the best man to head the organizatiou as president?

That was asked of almost all the gentlemen who have heretofore been interested in base ball management. The universal answer was: Captain W. R. Joyner.

a determined effort was made to get "Cap" to take hold. There is no man in Atlanta who is more popular, and certainly none could enjoy the confidence of the people does the genial head of the fire department. He is, in addition to all this, a baseball enthusiast, and he knows a ball player when he sees one.

"Cap" is just the man for the place. When first approached, he refused to consider the matter; but after he had received assurances of the hearty support of the lovers of baseball and especially of those who have heretofore been prominent in the management, he con-

He does this, however, with the understand ing that he will receive the hearty support of the people who want baseball. It now remains for those to do their share and subscribe the

"Cap" Joyner has the confidence of the public, and there is no doubt that the $5,000 eded to ensure the success of the club can be

Three days of hard work had demonstrated that the men who have always taken the lead in baseball here, as well as the community generally, approved the idea of having Atlanta represented in the Southern league, and it only remained to select a head to the movement to obtain the necessary support. This having been accomplished, the work of securing the amount needed was started at once, and a large amount was subscribed in less than an hour. The Canvass will be continued today.

President T, D. Wharton was requested to remain over another day to assist in the completion of the organization, and he consented to do so. The idea is to issue stock at twenty-five dollars a share. This sum is reasonable, and every Atlantian who loves baseball wik feel it his duty to assist to that extent at least;

Doug. Crothers, the well known manager Doug. Crothers, the well known manager and pitcher, arrived yesterday morning from St. Louis. He pitched for Dallas, Texas, last year, and was signed as a manager-player this season, but the disbandment of Dallas several weeks ago left him without an engagement with a team of players on his bands. He comes here to obtain, if possible, the position of manager of the Atlanta club. Crothers says he has his team secured and can sign them in two days. They are the same men, with one or two exceptions, as the Dallas club of last year, which won the pennant in the Texas league, and defeated New Orleans, a member of that league, seven out of eight games played. Crothers is a native of Natchez, Mississippi, and has played ball for a number of years. He is employed as a clerk in the tax collector's office in St. Louis, and plays ball in summer.

The project to revive baseball in Atlanta has excited a great deal of comment. Here are some of the expressions heard by The Co stitution yesterday:

Mr. C. A. Collier: "I would like to see baseball in Atlanta. I believe it is a good thing for the city. While my business will n talo s me to take an active part in it, I willingly susscribe."

Mayor Glenn: "I favor anything that will help Atlanta. I don't know very much about the game, but I approve of the movement to put a club from this city in the South-about the game, but I approve of the movement to put a club from this city in the Southern league."

Mr. Walter R. Brown: "I believe Atlanta should have baseball and be in the Southern league. I am too busily engaged to take a prominent part in the enterprise, but will do my share toward establishing a club here."

Mr. Stephen A. Ryan: "I am out of baseball as far as taking an active part in it is concerned, but I am glad to hear of the movement to have Atlarta represented in the Southern league and will contribute my share towards it. This is a good ball town, and with a man like Captain Joyner as president, it will riberally support a team."

Mr. H. B. Deas: "We want some amusement in summer, and no class of entertainment will be as popular as baseball. With Captain Joyner at the helm, the movement will go with a rush."

Mr. J. Carroll Payne: "A club in Atlanta will do well, and I am heartily in favor of going into the Southern league."

Mr. Jos. N. Moody: "I would like the best in the world to see Atlanta in the Southern league, and I hope she will go in. Baseball was at one time a big thing in Atlanta, and it will be again if we have a first-class club. That is what we want, and that is what we will have if we go in. When you get your subscription lists ready call upon me and I will help you out."

Mr. H. C. Stockdell: "Good! Let's go in and win the pennaut. We can do it. Count me in when you get started. I am ready to do my share, and see no reason why Atlanta should not go into the league with a good me in when you get started. I am ready to do my share, and see no reason why Atlanta should not go into the league with a good months farnisnes plenty of fun for everyone."

Mr. Rhode Hill: "I am glad to see that Atlanta is going into the Southern league. You know I never miss a game when I can help it.
By all means, let's have a club, and you can count me in to help the boys out."
Mr. Jack Sullivan: "Well, you know how I stand on baseball. I generally go to see all the games, and I don't think there is a man in Atlanta who loves baseball better than I do. I believe the sport is as popular as ever in Atlanta and that a good team will show this. I have no doubt but that the games will be well

Captain R. J. Lowry: "I enjoyed going to see baseball last summer, and would like to see the game again. Why, certainly, you can count me in as belonging to the majority when it comes to baseball."

Mr. W. H. Patterson: "You can rely upon my helping baseball in any way that I can, I am quite fond of the sport, and am ready to do everything possible that will encourage the movement."

THERE WERE MANY OTHERS. And there were many others who expressed themselves in the same strain.

The old-time enthusiasm seems to be reviv—

MAYOR GLENN DISSENTS.

He Addresses a Communication to the Members of the General Council.

hers of the General Council.

At the last meeting of the city council of. Atlanta, a diversity of opinion was expressed as to the right of an alderman to vote upon a question involving the expenditure of money. Mayor Glenn held that an alderman had not this right, while several members of the aldermanic board differed with him.

This issue was for the moment settled by the passage of a resolution offered by Councilman Moran, giving an alderman the right to vote on all stages of a question until a direct vote was reached.

was reached.
Yesterday Mayor Glenn addressed the following letter to the members of the city council of Atlanta:
ATLANTA, Gs., February 20th, 1889—To the Members of the General Council—However much I may dislike to disagree with you I must dissent from the construction of the charter contained in the reso-lution passed by your body at its last se-sion which declares,

"That in the opinion of the general council the aldermen have the right to vote on all stages of any mestion until it reaches a direct vote on the appro priation of money or the expenditure thereof," and I will thriefly give my reasons. Section 10 of the charter creates three distinct and separate legislative bodies for the city which are styled, 1st, The mayor and board of aldermen, consisting of the mayor and board of aldermen, consisting of the mayor and board of aldermen, consisting of the mayor and the members of the council; and 3d, The mayor and general council, which consists of the mayor and general council, but section 13 of the charter requires; "in all votes, resolutions or ordinances having for their object the increase of the indebtedness of the city or the expenditures of its revenues the councilmen representing the different wards and the aldermen representing the city at large shall act as separate and distinct legislative bodies, and no vote resolution or ordinance having for its object the increase of the indebtedness of the city or the expenditures of its moneys shall be voted until the same shall have received a majority of the votes of each of these legislative bodies separately cast. The aldermen shall have no vote upon such questions when originated, presented and voted on by the councilmen as aforesaid, but shall meet as a separate body and vote on the same."

Having divided these bodies into separate and said, but shall meet as a separate body and vote on the same. Having divided these bodies into separate and distinct legislative bodies and having declared that in this particular class of legislation they should act as separate and distinct legislative bodies, the charter certainty prohibits the aldermen from taking any part in the proceedings when the mayor and council are considering the expenditure of money. The charter does not simply say that they shall vote as separate and distinct bodies, but the expression is that they shall act as separate and distinct bodies, and this certainty includes all the proceedings of the body in this class of legislation. The charter separates the two bodies as completely as the senate and house of representatives of the state are separated, and no one ever imagines that a senator could enter the house and vote or take part in the proceedings of the house. The councilmen have just as much right to take part in the proceedings of the house of the senator could enter the house and vote or take part in the proceedings of the house of the participate in the proceedings of the mayor and council, when appropriating money, and I believe that right has never yet been claimed by any councilman.

The meaning of the charter evidently is that in originating legislation looking to the expenditure of money the mayor and council shall act separately and independently of the board of aldermen and that afterwards the board of aldermen shall meet and approve or disapprove of what the mayor and council have done, acting separately and independently of the councilinen, and as a check upon them. If the aldermen were allowed to participate in the proceedings of the mayor and council by making motions and voting on them, to refer to committees, to postpone, to lay on the table, to amend, and other dilatory motions known to sharp parliamentarians, they could irrequently thwart and defeat the council in originating such legislation as the charter places exclusively in their province.

This is undoubtedly the meaning of the charter, and presents the singular anomaly of three separate legislative bodies acting at times together and at times separately. Hearn that some contuston has grown out of it in the past and probably will in the future, unless it is changed, and I suggest that you take into consideration the advisability of having the charter amended in such a manner as to provide that the common council and the board of ald-rmen meet as separate bodies and to require that all legislation shall nas both bodies and he approved by The meaning of the charter evidently is that in the charrier amended in such a manuer as to provide that the common council and the board of aid-men meet as separate bodies and to require that all legislation shall pass both bodies and be approved by the mayor before taking effect. As the mayor has a veto upon the action of the council it does not look right for him to preside over the body whose action he can veto. I would suggest that you consider the policy of providing by an amendment to the charter for the election by the council and board of aldermen of presidents to preside over these bodies. These amendments to the charter would not increase the cost to the city and would, in my opinion, in prove the efficiency of the city government. The legislation of the city would then have to pass two legislative bodies and be approved by the mayor before becoming a law, thus securing more deliheration and preventing hasty and thoughtless action. I think that the responsibility should be put on the mayor of either approving or vetoing every resolution and ordinance—and not allow him the privilege of non-action, which he now has, by simply taking no action on the resolutions and ordinances passed by the council. Respectfully submitted.

The old firm of Meador & Griffin have dissolved copartnership by mutual consent. The Mr. J. J. Meador, the retiring member, has for years been one of the leading spirits in Atlanta commercial circles.

The new firm begins operation with the most flattering prospects. The business last year was $1,250,000, and there is every reason to believe that the business this year will be even larger. In addition to their heavy brokerage larger. In addition to their heavy brokerage and commission business they ship extensively, not only for Atlanta, but for Augusta, Athens, Jacksonville and all other southeastern jobbing points. In January the firm made a deal in meat on the track to the amount of $52-500 in one day. Mr. Griffin himself is too well known in Atlanta to require a business introduction. The subject of carpets is now under consideration, and will be disposed of before furniture and was fixtures are considered.

Chairman Rice said yesterday, after inspecting the bids, that he was perfectly satisfied now that the new capitol could be furnished in the finest style within the appropriation.

The people of Georgia will be happy to know this, for there is a strong sentiment in favor of furnishing the building with the very best in all departments.

aches upon a question discussed in yesterday's Constitution:

ATLANTA, Ga., February 20 .- Editors Cou stitution: We have read in your issue of today the setution: We have read in your issue of foday the complaints of various shippers and the excuses for delay from the agents of the different railroads. The latter we do not think will hold good, for the trouble is not confined to carload shippers, brokers or terminal facilities. Our complaint regards only the East Tennessee railroad, and is not merely of recent date, for more than a year age we had several complaints from consignees. On one occasion we sent to the depot and found the goods still there, a week after receipt had been signed. About three months age we shipped a lot of goods to Brunswick, in remitting for them, the consignee stated they were three weeks en route. A little laier we shipped another lot to same place. The party remitted three weeks afterwards and stated the goods had not then arrived. About same time we made a shipment to Rockmart via East Tennessee route. This was ten days getting to destination. the East Tennessee railroad, and is not merely o destination.

This road is evidently killing all trade that tlanta might get from south Georgia and Floridu via their line.

Whi on the complaint list it would be well to give Uncle Sam his dose. Our last letter from Brunswick was postmarked 3d. It arrived here on the 7th. From Pens. cola the average is three days. Other Fjorlda points three to tendays. Respectfully, Duck & Co.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: In your issue of yesterday, under the head of "The Freight Blockade," I regret very much that I was quoted at all, ade," I regret very much that I was quoted at all, especially so, as I appear in an unpleasant light through your reporter—unintentionally I hope. Under a moment's reflection it might have been avoided. To explain: Your reporter called at my office where he met Mr. R. Schmidt, of the Central railroad, who conducted principally the conversation foathe short visit. I was called out, and, really, retired during this interval, and did not hear its end. During the talk, however, answering an inquiry, I perhaps stated that all the yards were very much blocked; that there might be cause for complaint because we could not handle the freight as promptly as usual. It I mentioned our brokers at al (which I do not now remember), it certainly was not to single them out as complainers or a hard class of hard customesr, as it appears. I am early sorry that any such impression was made by the fittle I did say, and respectfully beg to offer this explanation to the gentlemen who do business under the head of brokers and may feel offended.

Miss Marie Walnwrigh Lady Teazle .... "School for Scandal," presented by Louis James and Marie Wainwright at DeGive's last night, was and Marle Wainwright at DeGive's last night, was an artistic and thoroughly pleasing performance of the most charming of old school comedies. To see a company of tragedians do comedy is a rarity, but to see them make their comedy exquisitely perfect is a much greater rarity, yet that is what the James Wainwright company did last evening.

Marle Wainwright is always a pretty woman and clever actress, no matter what her costume or her role. As Lady Teazle she was charming indeed. Apparently without thought for the conceptions of Apparently without thought for the conceptions of predecessors, her Lady Teazle is evidently what the character appears to her. Piquante and versatile, she is throughout the embodiment of the character, and at the same time a lovely and beautiful woman.

Mr. James, as Charles Surface, added strength t the claim of the critics that he is the most versatile actor of the American stage. Very strong in ro-bust characters of the Virginius type, he is also the perfection of the airy, devi:nay-care profitate Charles Surface. It would be hard to find two characters more nearly opposite, yet in each he is excellent.

The company is, as a whole, strong. Mr. Lang-on, was very strong indeed as Sir Peter Teazle. Mr. Mosley was particularly good as Joseph Surface. Miss Meeks, Miss Harris and other members of the company sustained their parts well, and the performance as a whole was one of the most thoroughly enjoyable of the season.

Arthur Rehan's Comedy Company.

This excellent company, headed by Mr. Arthur Rehan, will give this evening augustin Daly's greatest success, "Nancy & Co." This will be a treat, indeed. "Nancy & Co." is one of the most delightful of those truly delightful comedies for which Daly is noted, and like "A Night Od," which was here earlier, will prove one of the most charming entertainments of the year. A Night Od," which was here earlier, will prove one of the most charming entertainments of the year. A Night Od," which was here own on the per ormance, said:

A delighted audience greeted Arthur Rehan's superb company of comedians at the beautiful Theater Vendome last night and saw presented for the first time to a Nashville addience that joyous farce-comedy, "Nancy & Co." It is not an old-fashioned comedy, but of modern French origin, and showing by its adaptation and America-izing the skiliful stage managing and clear brain work of Augustin Daly, at whose New York theater it was so long a most hilarious success. Moreover, in the delicate and refined hands through which it has passed, it is not only bright, funny and pleasing, but delightfully clean and wholesome—in fact, the very nighest order of intellectual modern company.

The company upon whose shoulders the success of "Nancy & Co." falls is not only excellent but superbly strong. There is no "bright particular star" around whom all the lesser lights revolve, but each and everyone is a star, and it is difficult to see how they could jossibly be improved upon. They work smoothly, rapidly together, and so help each other to points and situations that they kept the audience on a continual qui vive of delighted interest. Miss Anele Waters as Nancy Brasher was a charming ingenious artiste—a fine husband-manager, and a talker of whom one reads. A very pretty woman she is, too, and a rich and choice dresser, her toflettes being altogether lovely. Miss Maude Hasiam as "Daisy Griffing," was an aggravatingly clever old codger, and hardly said a word or did a thing—the benevolent visiged old mock tyrant—

Prescott and McLean. Prescott and McLean.

Next Saturday night on the last appearance of Miss Morie Prescott and Mr. R. D. McLean at De-Gives', a Winter's Tale will be presented. Miss Prescott assumes the dual roles of Hermonine and Partities and in these parts she is correctly experience. Prescot assumes the dual roles of Hermonine and Perdita and in these parts she is grandly exquisite in every detail. In the part of Hermonine she wears dresses which are marvels of elaborate workmanship and which have attracted the admiration of every connaisseur in fine and delicate embroidery. Aside from being most costly in materials, these dresses are novel and exquisite in design, and set off the majestic features of the role of Queen Hermonine with magnificent effect.

As Antolycus, Mr. McLeau gives proof of the versatility of a clever actor, as the part is widely different from others he assumes.

HE TALKS NATIONAL POLITICS. A Well Known Gentleman Tells of Affairs in New York State.

New York State.

Mr. Frank D. Hatfield, of New York, so well and favorably known throughout the south from his long connection with Colgate & Co., was at the Kimball yesterday.

"Everything is quiet in the democratic camp," said he, "and the opinion is universal that David B. Hill will be the party's next nominee for president, and will be triumphantly elected. Indeed, the regret that he was not nominated last year is universal, too. There is a personal magnetism about Governor Hill which makes him the idel of the masses, and in this respect he is in great contrast to Mr.

is a personal magnetism about Governor Hill which makes him the idol of the masses, and in this respect he is in great contrast to Mr. Cleveland. Everybody in Albany, republicans as well as democrats, call him "Dave" Hill, just as we used to speak of "Abe" Lincoln, not disrespectfully, but as indicating the affectionate esteem in which he was held.

"The talk about Cleveland being sacrificed to Hill in New York last fall is nonsense. The former's tariff views were the all sufficient cause of his losing the state, which, on any industrial issue, is dominated by its manufacturing interests and committed to the protection theory. On a merely local question, the popularity of Governor Hill easily won him the excess of votes he received over what were cast for Cleveland. Much of the credit, however, for Hill's splendid run was due to Chairman Edward Murphy, Jr., of the democratic state committee, who is, in my judgment, the ablest political manager in the country today, and who, although without as yet a national reputation, is rapidly forging to the front as prospective general marshal of the democratic hosts in 1882."

"How about your local fights?"

"Factional differences in New York city

"How about your local fights?" "How about your local nghts?"
"Factional differences in New York city have been almost entirely obliterated by the election of Hugh Grant to the mayoralty, who seems a more acceptable man to the party generally than has held that office for many years back. On the other hand the republicans are writting my into innegariable cliques for or back. On the other hand the republicans are splitting up into innumerable cliques for or against this or that leader or policy. The Platt and Miller factions are fighting like cats and dogs for the offices, and the Blaine and anti-Blaine men are at swords' points. New York never did, take kindly to Blaine. Wall street especially distrusts and dislikes him. He will have the country in a domestic turmoil, or foreign entanglement continually by his jingoism; that is the general belief of Gotham's best business men. The empire state is democratic by at least twenty thousand ma-Gotnam's best ousness men. The empire state is democratic by at least twenty thousand majority on any but a tariff issue, and David Bennett Hill is by long odds its 'favorite son' today. I am for Hill and Grady in '92, and if you southern people will go in for that ticket it's a sure winner, and will unite the country at last beyond any possibility of sectional dissention thereafter."

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock

NEW YORK. February 20.—The stock market loday showed little animation, accompanied by considerable strength, during the first hour, but after that time it became duff, and the net result of the day is to leave prices in most of the list unchanged from last evening. Operators await news from the conference at Chicago. Transactions were extricted to it a smallest limits. Some talk of further shipments of political was made the most of and ther shipments of sold was made the most of, and the fact that the Union Pacific funding bill must lie over until another session of congress was heard of a great deal. The market closed dull but firm at a great dear rices and generally at small fractions better than last evening prees. The Big Four rose 1 per cent, but other changes are for small fractions only. Showing a decrease of NEW YORK, February 20.—(Special.)—Henry Clews & Co.'s circular on the cotton market say: The cotton market today has been firmer and more active then for several days past. The trading has been large and at times aggressive. On the buying side the demand was free. The shorts were the principal buyers during the day, although there was good buying for Liverpool and long account. At the opening the first trades were 'gade at 3 points days on a conversation, and the control of the standard advance over yesterday's final prices on a better tone of Liverpool advices and the anticipated decone in Liverpool advices and the satisfied de-ercase in receipts, the receipts being estimated at 15,000 bales as against 25,900 bales last week. Later in the day the prices for all the options advanced rapidly some 5 to 7 points on an increased buying higher and some covering of short contracts, and the receipts at all ports aggregating only 11,613 bates or 4,000 less than was estimated. At the close the prices were within 1 p int of the highest figures of the day, showing not gains of 8 to 10 points over yesterday's prices. N tices will be started out to morrow on March contracts and the result is looked forward to with considerable interest. Liver pool i credited with being heavily long in this market and as the bulk of the jurchases were made but recently, the presumption is that a great deal of the cotton will be received, as deliveries promise to be JOHN S. ERNEST.

NEW ORLEANS, February 20-[Special.]-Glenny lett, in their cotton circular, says: m of surprises. Our New York dispatches sa that shorts are covering freely on light receipts and and better Liverpool, and the market closed steady there 7 to 8 points higher teau yesterday. Liver-pool closed firm 1-64 better and New Oricans 6 to 7 receipts, higher. Receipts to the property of t points higher. Receipts today were light, and should they continue so we believe speculation will soon take hold. At any rate the market is very sensative to any failing of in receipts. The interiar movement this week promises to be considerably smaller this week than last week. The spot demand for several days past has been large and today results in sales of 12,000 bales at 1-46 advance and with any decline in foreign froights we think this demand continue.

NEW YORK, February 20-The New York Sun's review of the cotton market to-day, say: Futures advanced smartly on stronger reports from Liverpool and reduced receipts at ports, which stimulated the demand to cover contracts, and caused the bulls to show more confidence. Dealings were mainly March options which closed at the best prices of the contract was otherwise presented. ciay, but the market was otherwise unsettled. #### THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in CHICAGO, February 20—Wheat was active but nervous and unsettled. The opening for May was $1.00 below closing of yesterday, and sold off $20 more rallying 15.00 or to yesterday's closing futures, again weakened, declined 15.00 and after some changes closed 15.00 lower than yesterday. July, on the other hand, opened about $4.00 or in, old up a trifle, then off $40 and later became very strong advancing 25.00 closing about 1e higher than yesterday. It was runored that some large houses heretofore identified with "bull" side, were Grain and Provisions. s heretofore identified with "bull" side, were celling May and buying July, the difference between the two futures being too great. This movement, however, may have been done only for the purpose of making a turn of few cents, and should May decline a little further, a reverse movement will be again attempted.

Corn ruled rather quiet most of the session, though there were occasional periods of moderate activity. The feeling developed was steady early in the day, but as the session advanced a better feelng prevailed. There was nothing new of impor-ance developed, and prices were governed largely y local influences.

Onts were steadler and a higher range of price were established, with moderately free offerings early.

A weak feeling prevailed in the market for hog products and prices were about as ye-terday, closing steady. The opening sales of mess pork were made at 7½ electinz, which was followed by further reductions of 10@12½c. Later the market ruled steadier and prices railled 7½@10c.

Trading in lard was only fairly active, and changes in price were slight.

Short ribs declined	716@100	, but rallied 2	16@ 5c.

The Manchester Market. MANCHESTER, February 20.-The Guardian, in its commercial article says: A decidedly quiet and often slow market is reported on all sides. Some orders for India and China staples were exe-cuted at provious prices, but they were neither nu-merous nor important. Producers of India goods cuted at previous prices, but they were neither numerous nor important. Producers of Indis goods generally show much steadiness and are little concerned at the continued slackness of demand. Occasion lity, however, the desire for fresh contracts is becoming marked. Encouraging news from India is auxfously awaited. China merchants bought continuously in small quantities. The demand for staple cloths in the order department is weak. The exceeding costliness for yarns, disposes the manufacturers to stop their looms and lessen the supply. A few orders were placed for export yarns, Inquiries were received from India, China, and Japan. Some India business was done with difficulty at Fiday's prices. Scarcely any business was executed for the east. There were occasional sales for the continuent, although the demand was generally slow. Home manufacturers buy in trilling quantities to supply their needs. The tone of the cloth market is quiet and prices are firm. Current quotations are mostly so roor that manufacturers are more inclined to lessen production than to acc p a lower rate. The tendency must rather be upward than downward, unless yarns decline, except, as in case of good India shirtings, there may occasionally be bought slightly under Friday's best prices and printing and other fallshing cloths are dull, yet firm. Heavier cloths are steady, quiet and slow, the demand chiefly for small quantities.

The Petroleum Market.

NEW YORK, February 20—The petroleum market opened steady at 91%c, but became weak and decimed in an hour to 96%c. Buying by the Standard oll brokers then advanced the price to 921 so and e market closed firm at 91%c.

During the forenoon Dr. Herndon's case was palled before Judge King, and J. H. Downs was brought into court as a witness.
Judge J. W. Downs was also present.
Judge King gave the case a patient and careful hearing, and found that the evidence was and the warrant against Dr. J. T. F. Herndon was dismissed.

Judge King says that there was not an iota of evidence going to show that Herndon was in any way connected with the burglary, but that all the testimony tended to exonerate him.

Downs's testimony was of no avail, as it was clearly established by the sworn statement of his father that

THE MAN IS INSANE

Judge Downs told the story of his son's mis-

Three years ago he was the brightest member of his father's family, and one on whose future the family built their fondest hopes. He was then thirty-live years of age. It was at that time that his malady developed, and the story of his confinement and release from the asylum, appeared in yesterday's CONSTRUCTION.

day's Constitution.,

A COMPLICATED QUESTION.

The question now arises as to what will be-

The question how arises as to what are come of Downs.

There is a rule in force at the asylum to the effect that a patient out on furlough may be returned to the asylum on the original commitment, if application be made inside a Welve month.

Otherwise a new committal trial is required.
Downs had been out over a year, but since October of last year he has been at large, and beyond the reach of his relatives.

He lacked two months of having been out a year when he made his escape.
So, he has really not overstaid the limit through any fault on the part of his family.

REMANDED TO JAIL.

through he is clearly note oversaint the finite through he is clearly insane, Judge King had no alternative but to send him back to jail, because his court had no jurisdiction in cases of lunacy.

Yesterday Judge Calhoun was consulted, but he decided that the case was beyond the Hmits of his jurisdiction, and that Downs would have to be taken back to Carroll county. It now looks as if the only solution of the case is the removal of Downs on a writ of habeas corpus, so that he may have a trial in a court of lunacy in his own county, and if his insanity is re-established he will be returned to the asylum.

In case the jury was to find him not insane, he would, of course, be returned to await the result of his trial on the charge of burglary.

A Card From Dr. Hammond.

A Card From Dr. Hammond, EDITORS CONSTITUTION: My attention has been called to the report of the Downs-Herndon affair in the morning CONSTITUTION. The entire statement, or report, so far as it concerns myself, is affair in the morning CONSTITUTION. The entire statement, or report, so far as it concerns myself, is wholly and utterly talse. I have reason to believe, and in fact know, that your reporter was misled by a dirty and contemptible cur, who proposed, by the methods of the coward, to accomplish that which he has not the coward, to accomplish that which he has not the coward, to accomplish that which he has not the coward, to accomplish that which he has not the coward, to accomplish that which he has not the coward, to accomplish that which he has not the coward, to accomplish that which he has not the coward, to accomplish that which he has not the coward to account of the burglary implicating Mr. John T. Ho ndon as accessory before the crime was committed; a little farther on, and under the captpin—"A Throny"—there is a most vitial nous attempt to explain the finding of some surfical and dental instruments in Downs's office. This same party doubtless informed your reporter that I was the author of the "mysterious" circular, and then proceeded to the task of convincing him that they were "obscene," both of which are false—lies spun from whole cloths. He then proceeded to say that a brother of mine nurdered a man in Alianta about the close of the late war, which is also false. The report that I have been arranging my affairs for going west, saiso a falsehood; while the declaration that the poor intaits is a "weak tool," and therefore malable in the hands of others will only serve to provoke a smile in the minds of those who know the two men. The unfortunate lunatic is this skulk's superior, both mentally and morally. The one has a mania for money, the other for lying. Downs works for his bread and pays his way, while this contemptible fellow, like the vampire, sucks the blood of the unwary."

Bul, explanations are unnecessary. I simply destrone the contemptible fellow, like the vampire, sucks the blood of the unwary.

Wary,
But, explanations are unnecessary. I simply desire to say, in conclusion, that I do not expect to leave Atlants. Trusting this unpleasant affair is now disposed of forever, I am, Very respectfully. Jost. F. Hammond.

The use of the name of L. J. Daniel as a witness in this case was an error.

Mr. Daniel says he does not know either Downs or Herndon.

There was a mistake in the initials.

and they began a rather rough, but perfectly good-inumored tussle.

The sister-in-law was sitting before the fire with a child in her lap.

She was in feeble health.

During the scuffle White struck her foot a time or two, and she got up and took a hand, as White thought, playfully.

But when she picked up a hammer and struck him on the head, he found out that she was in carnest.

Whirling around, he shoved or struck her rather rudely to one side.

The woman became ill, and in a short time she gave birth to a child.

The child was dead.

On its head was a contusion just the size an appearance of a wound that would have been indicted with a hammer.

On account of the peculiar facts in the case, and the fact that the woman is still critically ill, White was held on a charge of assault and battery.

THE CORONER LOOKED INTO THE CASE YESTERDAY.

AND SAYS NOBODY IS TO BLAME. The Man Who Was Hurt in a Difficulty With Mr Smith Died Yesterday-The Facts as Brought

Out on the Investigation. He died yesterday morning about 9 oclock, t his home on East Hunter street. Mr. Thompson, it will be remembered, is the gentleman who had the difficulty with Mr. T. M. Smith on last Saturday the 14th. He has been unconscious ever since that time, but his physicians, Drs. Collier, Murray and Gaston, entertained some hopes of his recovery up to Sunday morning, when he sank into a comatose state, and remained in that condition until his death.

state, and remained in that condition but it is death.

Mr. Thompson was a bout 50 years of age, and leaves a wife and three chilren, two girls and a boy. He was a machinist at the East Tennessee shops, and his sad death will be greatly felt among his fellow workmen, with whom he was very popular. From the time of the accident until his death he was unable to recognize or converse with his closest friends, and his only complaint was that his head pained him, his answer to all question being, "My head; oh, my head!"

The physicians were at loss for a diagnosis of the case at first, and thought that their patient had sustained the rupture of a blood vessel, but as time clapsed it became more and more evident that the skull had been injured though a fracture was not apparent.

more evident that the skull had been injured though a fracture was not apparent.

THE STORY OF THE DIFFICULTY, as brough out by the investigation of the coroner yesterday, is about as follows:

Mr. T. M. Smith was a tenant of Mr. Thompson's, and the house was in need of repair. Mr. Thompson having neglected to make them, he had the work done and deducted the cost thereof from his monthly rent. The repairs amounted to about two dellars, and the balance due Mr. Thompson was about the same.

balance due Mr. Thompson was about the same.

On last Saturday one week ago, at about five o'clock in the evening, Mr. Thompson called at Mr. H. Wolfe's store on Whitehall street, where Mr. Smith was engagad, and demanded the payment of the money. During the conversation which followed he used some very abusive language toward Mr. Smith, which of course angered him, and he answered in the same spirit. Finally Mr. Thompson sald:

"Smith, you are no gentleman, and haven't enough honor in you to pay your just debts."

Mr. Smith replied: "Thompson, I don't want to have any trouble with you, but I don't want you to repeat what you have just said."

He then turned and walked toward the front of the store. Thompson followed him and when he came up to him he said:

"You are a secondrel and haven't any honor in you."

in you."
"If you say that you are a liar," replied "If you say that you are a liar," replied Smith.

Mr. Thompson then pulled out a pocket knife, and clenching it in his hand, without opening it, however, aimed a blow at Mr. Smith's face. The two men had exchanged some half dozen blows when Mr. H. Wolfe, who had been standing on the sidewalk, rushed in and separated them, pushing Mr. Smith toward the rear of the store and Mr. Thompson toward the sidewalk. It seems that Mr. Thompson, in moving backwards caught his boot on an iron plate which was fastened to the floor and fell, striking the back of his head on the stone sidewalk. When Mr. Smith saw him fall he ran out and stooping down, raised him up and called for the celored porter to go for a physician. When the physician arrived the injured man had been carried into the store and was being cared for by Mr. Wolfe and his assistants.

The following is the verdict of the intry.

THE VERDICT.

The following is the verdict of the jury The following is the verdict of the jury:
We, the jury empaneled and sworn to inquire into the cause of the death of Mr. J. Richard Thompson, here lying dead, from the evidence adduced, find that he came to his death by a fall and striking his head on the flagstone in front of 98 Whitehall street, sald fall being the indirect result of a difficulty between Mr. Thomas M. Smith and deceased, and in our opinion, no one is criminally liable for said death.

Broke Up From Childhood.

I have been afflicted with scrofula ever since I was a small child. To tell of all I have suffered would be a picture too dark and painful too think of. Years of misery I endured, bad digestion, no appetite, theumatism in my feet, all those and more than these have made my life a misery. For fifteen years I followed the prescription of physicians, which was no more to me than water poured on the ground. Two years ago I took S. S. S., and nothing in all my wretched and unhappy life was such a blessing to me as that medicine. After taking six bottles I was a new creature, was free from pain, was clear of rheumatism, was able to sleep, to cat and work, and was well and happy. My rheumatism has been cured, and has never returned. S. S. S. has certainly been a wonderful blessing to me.
